KYLE BURTON aka ZERO-POINT

Kyle Burton aka Zero-Point is an Indigenous ‘post-human’ who has inherited his power to manipulate ‘zero-point energy’ from his father – the original Zero-Point. Darwin born NORFORCE ‘Green Skin’ turned Special Operations Command (SOCOMD) soldier; Kyle was part of the Australian forces deployed to Timor-Leste during 2019 Presidential Election Crisis at the request of the East Timor’s government. During a mission, an anti-government post-human attacked the regiment Kyle was with, killing two of his squad mates. The increased adrenaline during this life or death situation triggered Kyle’s post-human abilities. Keeping this a secret from his superiors, Kyle went back to Darwin to find out the truth from his estranged mother about his father, David Smith; a mild mannered electrical engineer who passed away before Kyle was born. With the truth revealed, Kyle set out to follow in his father’s footsteps as Zero-Point, eventually gaining the attention of the Australian Extra-Normal Civil Operatives (AFECO). As Zero-Point, Kyle has the ability to manipulate his mass density, and the mass density of other objects within his ‘intrinsic field’. Kyle can also fly and fire bolts of ionised energy. While zero-point energy is infinite, the effects of channelling it through his body isn’t, so Kyle can only stay in a transformed state for 30 minutes at a time.

SAMSON

Powerful, charismatic, driven, controlled and strategic. This mysterious masked man seems to have a connection to the devastating 1979 Maralinga Quantum Test Facility explosion. Samson has the power to absorb nuclear radiation which gives him super strength, flight, high durability, and atomic eye beams. With a taste for the theatrical, Samson wears a 17th century British Army jacket and covers his face with a mask, making people believe he is fighting for Australian nationalism. Samson see's himself as an idealistic man fighting to make a positive change in Australia, by any means necessary. Appeasing those in power is a waste of time, and starting again from scratch is the only way to make Australia 'free' again.

AFECO

(Australian Federal Extra-Normal Civil Operative (AFECO) are the official Australian post-human force, enlisted to help overcome extra-normal threats and post-human terrorists. The team which Zero-Point works for includes team leader Wing Commander, ACDC who can channel electricity and Hou-Yi, a superhuman marksman and athlete.

Lisa Cartwright aka Wing Commander

Lisa Cartwright was born in Melbourne and during her formative years develops a keen interest in aviation. Lisa was driven, head strong and confident during her formative years, bordering on arrogance; traits that carried over to AFECO. She joins the RAAF Cadets at 13, then joins the RAAF proper. In 2005 Cartwright is made the test pilot of the then experimental F-35A Lightning II at RAAF Williams Laverton Base. The F-35A Lightning II was fitted with an experimental turbofan-ramjet engine (from the subsidiary company of Colossus Inc.). During the test the aircraft experiences catastrophic failure. The emotional stress Lisa experiences as the plane crashes activates her latent post-human abilities. This allowed her to survive the crash but is forced to resign due to the Post-human Non Aggression Treaty's ban of post-humans in the military. Phil Adian, the then Extra-normal Tactical Response (TR) Operations Commander for AFECO employs her using her former RAAF rank as her new codename: Wing Commander. Lisa's post-human abilities are solar absorption, where she absorbs solar energy that is then stored in the her cells for future use. Wing Commander possess super strength and flight capabilities.

RAND

Appearing seemingly out of nowhere, Rand became a terror to the Australian underworld and thorn in AFECO's side overnight. Cybercrime, espionage, theft of military hardware is small fraction of Rand's transgressions. He is the single example of why vigilantism cannot be tolerated in any form. Rand has inhumanly strong, unyielding will, and is willing to go to extremes mentally and physically to achieve his goal; especially as a non-super powered vigilante. Currently he works alone trying to uncover the connection between EYCE breakouts and the Australian Government's post-human experiments. Rand is willing to go to any extremes to achieve his goals, even if they don't line up with the laws of Australia.

ADAM 'MAGNUS'

Adam 'Magnus' is the prototypical superhero. Confident and patriotic, he is seen by the world as a boy scout representing American exceptionalism. Born in 1920. Adam had a difficult childhood due to Osteogenesis imperfecta. Adam is visited by a kindly professor, who has created a synthetic alkaline free-radical serum, that works in conjunction with an 'energy' pill. He explains his alkaline free-radical serum might cure Adam, but that the serum is untested. Adam says he is willing to try the serum if it means living a normal life. The kindly professor tells Adam that his life will be far from ordinary, and that he'll be a 'master amongst men'.

The serum and energy pill cure Adam of his Osteogenesis imperfecta, during his formative years he gains incredible strength and abilities. In 1940 Adam, inspired by science fiction stories and circus strongmen decides to wear a bright costume and becomes Magnus, wonder of the world! Magnus is considered the first 'Superhero' of the modern world. With his outgoing personality and willingness to operate in the open, he inspires many others to put on costumes and fight crime. Thus begins the 'Golden Age' of superheroes.

Today, Magnus wants to save the world from itself, and is pushing the United Nations to drop the Post-Human Non-Aggression Treaty to allow him to legally fight threats such as the Sons of Azriel in the Middle East. When Samson attacks Australia's Parliament House, Adam Magnus is called into help.
